

HOLISTIC, UIC Health Professions Cohort

The UIC Health Professions Cohort's HOLISTIC study is designed to gain a holistic understanding of health behaviors and demographics for health professional students within and between health science colleges.

This research study is being done to better understand the health of health professional students to impact university-wide programs.

Dr. Mary Keehn is the Director of Interprofessional Education and Practice for the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs at UIC. She leads this project.

What can I expect if I join the study?

You are being asked to participate in a research study. If you agree to participate, you will complete a 15-minute online survey using a computer or mobile device. We may ask you to fill out a similar survey in the future. Participants will also get a $5 Amazon e-gift card for completing the survey.

Your participation in this research study is voluntary and will not affect your standing with your college.

TODAY

About 15 minutes

COMPLETE A SURVEY

We will ask you to share information about you and your health.

FUTURE

About 15 minutes

COMPLETE SURVEYS

We may ask you to complete follow-up surveys in future years that ask you to share information about you and your health.

Risks

Although this study is designed to minimize potential risks as much as possible, participating does have some potential risks.

Loss of confidentiality: We will employ procedures to minimize the risk of disclosure. All data collected will be treated with strict adherence to professional standards of confidentiality.

Personal questions: Some of the questions may be of a personal nature, and you may feel uncomfortable by answering them. We understand if you prefer not to answer some questions.

There may be risks from the study that are not known at this time.

Benefits

Being in this study will not help you directly. We hope that your participation in the study may benefit other people in the future by helping us learn more about the health of health sciences students at UIC.